

Sean Patrick Richards

February 11, 2009 - July 20, 2023

Sean Patrick Richards, age 14; beloved and loving son, amazing brother and caring friend to all. Sean was truly an angel among us and is now an angel in Heaven. Sean was a gentle soul, with a unique understanding of kindness and friendship. He was sunshine, goodness and a positive influence on everyone around him. Sean was full of joy and wonder and gave love freely to everyone he met. He was always sincere, earnest and humble. Sean loved to smile, and his laugh was infectious.

We are truly blessed to have received the many gifts Sean shared with us on earth. We will miss him more than words can express, but all who knew him will forever carry a piece of sweet Sean in their hearts.

Sean is survived by his parents, Brian F. and Kristine L. Richards (née Kramer); his siblings Conor, Grace and Finn Richards; his grandparents Lawrence and Kathleen Richards (née Naughton) and Patricia Kramer (née Dougan) and many uncles, aunts, cousins and friends. He was preceded in death by his grandfather William Kramer and his uncle Michael Richards.

I am still feeling the impact that Sean has on the people and community of Hinsdale. This tragedy has had a very powerful impact on anyone who lives in and around this terrible accident. This precious boy has touched the heart and soul of everyone. My counseling center is close to the area where the tragedy happened. I want Sean's parents to know that I continue to pray for them and ask that God give them courage, strength and Grace at this time. We mourn Seans passing and bring light and peace to all who knew him and loved him. Love never dies! I know that your son sends comfort and love to you. His legacy will live on and he will never be forgotten.

Brian, Kristi, Conor, Grace and Finn, We send our deepest condolences along with our love to your sweet family. After living next door to you for over 10 years, we have wonderful memories of Sean. We remember him arriving home from the hospital after being born, playing with his siblings and friends on your play structure, bringing us our mail and newspapers after we returned home from vacations and knocking on our backdoor to ask if our dog, Lucy, could come outside and play. We also remember Sean going back and forth to school, walking through our shared back lot. He always had a smile on his face as he proudly wore his St. Issacs uniform and carried his backpack. There are so many more. As Brian asked everyone to do at Sean's funeral, we will speak of Sean often, share stories about him and keep his memory alive. We will continue to pray for your family and for Sean's soul. May your faith in God and love for one another comfort you always. Mike, Jan, Haley, Riley and Charlie Burr

Rest in Peace Beautiful Sean

I would like to share notes I've written over the course of the last few days... Yesterday, I took part in the saddest funeral that I have ever attended. A 14-year-old neighborhood boy died after being struck by an out-of-control car as he walked down the street following a trip to the library and the orthodontist. Just walking along that street at that fateful moment allowed for his young body to be critically wounded and hang in the balance of life for almost four days. During those days, an entire town waited, hoped and prayed that a miracle would occur and that he would be restored to the boy that so many knew and loved. Green ribbons were tied to every tree and placards stood on many lawns reading - Pray for Sean! Pray for Sean! Our Church held Holy Hours and so many people came each night to beg God's intercession, and though it may be hard to grasp, He did intercede by taking Sean from this life to eternal life. On the day of Sean's wake, many people went first to the 5:00 p.m. Mass. So many crying people standing and kneeling and praying. All of them so somber, more dressed up than usual, quiet, uncertain of what to do or how to act. Then these people lined the streets to pay their respects to the grieving family. No sound could be heard as they waited. At his Funeral Mass, Father read words written by Sean just a short time before his death. He said, "We should not fear death or suffering because Jesus's Cross always wins." Sean wrote this for a religion class, reflecting on The Stations of the Cross. He also said, "We should say yes to God in His plan for us, no matter the cost. God never abandons us and is always with us. When we suffer, we grow closer to God. All we need is to have faith, like Mary did when she believed that Jesus would rise. We need to believe in His mission, no matter what." Father also said that Sean, who had graduated from 8th grade only weeks ago, had asked to remain as an altar server at the parish because he felt so at home there and, in fact, he served Mass the day before the fateful accident. Who can believe that this beautiful life would be cut so short? Each day after the accident one can imagine - only a day ago things were as they should be. Only two days ago....only last week....as time marches on and on. But we do not march. We are crippled. As people, we have needs. We are conceived in need. We need our mothers in order to exist. Later we develop more needs - certain temperatures, food, water, cleanliness, air, love...people...certain people... We cling to these needs, holding on like toddlers grasping for balance from chair to chair - hanging on for dear life. If one chair is poorly placed, we fall to our knees, crying for help. This is who we are through and through. We cannot live without our chairs. There is no use denying this. We limp between the gaps that come during life and sometimes we crawl. We beg God for help and we obtain the grace to stand and walk again, but we always remain needy creatures. It is the basic human condition. God made us this way - unable to live without necessities. We become panic-stricken when they are removed... And the dear love of another - the sound of a voice, the touch of a hand - laughter, warmth - this we count on, too. This is equal to air it seems and it simply cannot be removed. And yet, throughout life it is....over and over again. And with certain removals, it is more of a ripping apart - a devastating destruction...Who can live through it? It is not as though waiting a little will find things restored. No. For the rest of our days there will be a crippled limping after such surgery. We suffer so terribly. But it is a point to understand - it is we here on earth who suffer. Those who have been saved are not suffering. Their eternal joy has begun, knowing that, even if not immediately, they will soon be in Paradise! We will suffer continually at their loss, but there is solace in knowing that they are filled with joy. Who would not want their loved one to have this joy? Our suffering is a great tool - a surgical one, perhaps - to carve us into bigger souls that strive to know the mind of God. The more we grow, the more we can try to think as God thinks - to see things through His eyes. If we do this, we can even find understanding in a loss as devastating as the loss of Sean. Sean was taken before he could be corrupted. Who knows if he would have lost his innocence. We see his life as ending too soon, but God may think that it is not too soon at all. His life was complete at this number of days, though we may be numbed wondering how this could be possible. We keep striving to see life as God sees it...eternity rather than just today and the days ahead. Eternity! Sean has made it to eternity! We have to keep our eyes on this, not only for him, but for ourselves. Our pain today will mean so much in the eyes of eternity if we use it properly - offering it up and striving, striving very hard, to grow into bigger souls though it hurts so terribly. So we pray....we pray for the family. We pray for Sean. We pray for ourselves. God be with us! God bless Sean! Pray for us, Sean! Thank you for being such a good boy! I would recommend having Gregorian Masses said for Sean. They are part of a pious tradition in which 30 consecutive Masses are said for the departed. I would also recommend CS Lewis's book "A Grief Observed." Finally, I would recommend The Surrender Novena..."And when I must lead you on a path different from the one you see, I will prepare you; I will carry you in My arms; I will let you find yourself, like children who have fallen asleep in their mother's arms, on the other bank of the river..."

J

Janice Nowak, kindergarten teacher

When Sean was a student in kindergarten, he always welcomed every one with a bright smile and cheerfulness. He especially loved being in the presence of his classmates, while his classmates benefited by just knowing Sean. Sean loved books, creating art projects, free time for game activities, listening to stories being read to him, and was always determined to put forth his very best, and that he did! What a blessing to have had Sean in our kindergarten class. Now, heaven benefits by his presence. Janice Nowak

I did not know Sean but some of my cousins did. I am so very sorry for your loss of your beloved son. May your memories of such a fine young man help you through this time of grieving. And may the perpetual light shine upon Sean

M

Mary Therese Kerrigan

I will not remember the date, but I will always remember the moment I stared at the TV in my parents' apartment watching the news. Is this really happening in Hinsdale? The shock the next day as I sat watching my mom take the phone call from a close mutual friend of Kathy Richards. My mom's broken voice when she called me, now back in California a few days later, to say that Sean had died. "I don't know if I should even tell you this." What should we do, I asked? "I don't know." Then she said something like "hug your loved ones." My cousin offering to take my parents to the wake and funeral; going to their home so that they could stream the mass today. I texted my cousin yesterday, "I'm sorry you also knew him." Her response: "I did not know him or the family. My heart breaks for all of them. It has shaken the whole Hinsdale community. So senseless. So sad." Somehow grateful that hundreds of thousands in the Chicago area feel your loss and mourn with you. I hope that comforts you.

One of my favorite memories of Sean was when he came to watch Finn run at a track meet. Finn ran amazing, then immediately turned to Sean and, placing both hands on his shoulders, said "that will be you soon". Sean's entire face lit up in the biggest smile imaginable. I feel that all my memories of Sean involve seeing him smile. As a family, we are all completely heartbroken for each of you. The love in the Richards family runs deep, and I know Sean felt that love every single day. Our love, prayers and support don't seem like enough to offer, but we will continue to hold all of the Richards in our daily thoughts and prayers. Much love to all of you.

I met Sean very briefly when I stayed with the Richards family for a few days in December after befriending Grace at college. When Sean came home from school, he walked in the door, said his sister's name with so much love, and gave her the biggest hug. His gentleness, kindness, and smile not only reminded me of his sister but stuck out to me in the way they lit up a room. He was unlike any other eighth-grade boy I've ever met, and I know his pure heart is with the Lord now. I know he was loved so deeply by many others who knew him better than I did. My heart, thoughts, and prayers go out to the Richard's family.
